RESCUE TALES ...

Christmas came early to STC this year when we received an up-to-date picture of Petey. We found this sweet boy living in an alley in Philadelphia. We were in the neighborhood rescuing some cats, when a neighbor told us about a dog that had been left behind by his owners. We were told that he had been living in the alley for weeks surviving on handouts from neighbors. He was reluctant to come toward us at first but was lured in by the smell of food. While he dove into the food, we were able to get a makeshift collar/leash on him made from a piece of rope that we found hanging on a fence in the alley. He was happy to ride out of the city with his rescuers. With the help of the Bucks County SPCA a wonderful home was found for him.

This is Petey the day he was rescued from the alley. His people recently sent us the picture on the right.

These kitties were living under a shed behind a shopping center. A concerned person came into PetSmart on a Saturday when we were there doing our adoption day and asked for help with this family of cats. They were only inches away from the road behind the stores where the delivery trucks travel every day. It would only have been a matter of time before one of the kittens darted out in front of a truck and got hurt. After many hours spent waiting for the kittens to come close enough to be gathered up we finally rescued the whole family and brought them into foster care where it's safe and warm. Two of the kittens have already found a forever home. The cat and kittens in the picture are still available for adoption.

Cuddles had gotten lost in a storm sewer. A kind woman and her daughter were walking in their neighborhood when they heard his cries coming from a culvert. After making a few calls and getting no help they finally called the Newtown PetSmart store. The manager called STC and a few volunteers went out on a Sunday morning to get the kitty to safety. He loved to cuddle and that's how he got his name. He was lucky and quickly found a new forever home.

Save The Cats is a non-profit organization committed to the rescue, care, and placement of unfortunate animals like these. Since its inception, the group has been responsible for the successful adoptions of thousands of homeless animals. The organization operates solely on the generous donations of its supporters. Without their contributions, none of these wonderful creatures could have been given a second chance. Your donation will go a long way towards helping to defray the expenses (especially medical) that must be met in order to make the work of Save The Cats possible. Please consider becoming a part of this life-saving effort.

HOLIDAY 2011

Rescuing one animal may not change the world, but for that one animal, the world will be changed forever...

LOST & FOUND ...

The best way to deal with lost and found problems is to avoid them. Always have your pet secured either on a collar/harness and leash or a carrier when outside. It's never a good idea to have a pet loose in your vehicle unless it's securely on leash. Pets have been known to jump out of moving vehicles. Make sure yours can't.

Take special care when entering and exiting your home to assure your pet doesn't escape. If you are having work done at your home, place your pet in a secured room where workmen can't inadvertently let your pet get loose outside.

Have your pet micro-chipped so they can be identified as yours in case they do get lost. Collars with identification are great but they can get lost. Most shelters and veterinarians offices are able to scan and read chip information. If you have micro-chipped your pet, make sure your information is up to date with the company who issued the chip. Always have a good up to date color photo of your pet for ID purposes.

In the event that you do lose your pet then what? Notify all animal control people and shelters. Post signs with a photo of your animal in the vicinity where he/she got lost. Contact and ask to post signs at local veterinarians offices. There are various lost pet sites online where you can list your pet as missing. Include a detailed description of the appearance and disposition of your lost pet. Include where exactly and when the pet was last seen. Follow up with shelters to see if your pet has been turned into them.

SPOTLIGHT ON ...

ELLA

Ella was rescued as a stray in Philadelphia. The person that was feeding her believes she was abandoned by her previous owner when they moved.

Ella has become an exceptionally sweet cat who loves to spend time with her foster family in their office/den. In a very short time, she has become a lap cat who is extremely affectionate and will curl up on any lap available to her at the time.

Ella is still a playful cat and will entertain herself with her favorite ball and mouse. When she wants you to join in, she brings the toy to you, drops it at her feet and patiently stares at you until you get the point. In a short period of time, Ella will simply THRIVE in her forever home!

Ella would do best in a home with adults or older children.

Save-A-Cat Sponsorship

You love animals and wish you could have one but ...

- You're allergic to animals.
- Your house is too small.
- You're afraid your dog wouldn't get along with a cat.
- Your landlord doesn't allow pets.
- Your children are too young.
- You're too busy and not home much.
- You already have met your quota.

Then why not sponsor one of ours...

Save-A-Cat Sponsorship is a program where your monthly donation of $10 enables us to better care for our animals. Your donation will help fund our foster network, enabling us to continue with TNR (Trap, neuter, return) efforts and maintenance of these cats once they are returned, or pay for the veterinary care of our special needs cats. If you wish to become one of our Save-A-Cat Sponsors check the sponsor box on the form below.
